The Seoul Biennale of Architecture and Urbanism (SBAU) is an international architecture and urbanism biennale that takes place in Seoul, South Korea. The biennale was founded in 2007 and is held every two years. The theme of the 2024 biennale is 'The Future of Cities'.

The 2024 biennale will explore the challenges and opportunities facing cities in the 21st century. The biennale will feature a variety of exhibitions, installations, and events that will examine the future of urban living. The biennale will also include a series of public programs and workshops that will engage the public in the discussion about the future of cities.

The 2024 biennale is curated by a team of international architects and urbanists. The curatorial team is led by Alejandro Aravena, the Pritzker Prize-winning architect and founder of ELEMENTAL. The curatorial team also includes:

- Kazuyo Sejima, the Pritzker Prize-winning architect and co-founder of SANAA
- David Adjaye, the British-Ghanaian architect and founder of Adjaye Associates
- Lina Bo Bardi, the Italian-Brazilian architect and designer
- Yvonne Farrell and Shelley McNamara, the Irish architects and founders of Grafton Architects

The 2024 biennale is expected to attract a large number of visitors from around the world. The biennale is a major event in the international architecture and urbanism calendar and is a must-see for anyone interested in the future of cities.
